

Rod Andersen-More

DIRECTOR AND CO-FOUNDER

Rod co-founded Tactician 6 years ago after a long career in both large and small consulting firms and organisations. The goal was to create a consulting business in the people space that was different – that left the fluff behind and provided the pragmatic real-world solutions that business leaders wanted and needed.

His experience as both a business leader, line manager and business owner equipped him perfectly to achieve his goal and he is proud that Tactician have built a reputation for exactly the type of work he intended.

In January 2020, Rod was diagnosed with a brain tumour. The tumour, ironically, affected his communication pathways – go figure. While he is still very well and active, he has been left with Expressive Dysphasia which has prevented him from being actively involved in the business on a day-to-day basis.

However, as a lifelong workaholic, he still retains a very strong interest in all that Tactician does, and acts as a mentor for Luke Johnson, who has taken over as our most senior team member.

When not indulging his curiosity into what's going in Tactician, Rod has developed a passion for golf. He's going at golf with the same level of enthusiasm and commitment that drove him to complete four Sydney to Hobart yacht races, become a professional soccer player and run marathons/triathlons back in the day!
